“Cone Zone” tip for the week:

Did you know that typically the day after July 4th there are more dead animals on state highways than any other day of the year? Unfortunately, Caltrans workers must go and retrieve the dead carcasses to insure safety to motorists. Last year on November 28, Caltrans employee John Knabenbauer was killed on I-215 at 5th Street in San Bernardino while picking up a dead dog.

Animals become agitated and excited during celebrations and firework displays. Caltrans urges pet owners to keep their pets safe not only on the July 4th weekend, but at all times. Keep your pet inside with you or in a secured area. Caltrans wishes you and your loved ones a very happy July 4th!
